NEXT STEPS

History is a record of change and our country, community and this Village are changing as we struggle through this historic pandemic. Like you, we miss the way things were, but until science leaps forward with medicines and vaccines to control and eventually eliminate this coronavirus, we are limited to incremental steps to reformat programs and services that safely generate revenue and administrative adjustments that reduce expenses.

To succeed during the next year we also rely on your participation and support. Frankly, you are a crucial 'Next Step'. Please register for programs. Bring family members or close friends within your household bubble to Village events. Sign up for virtual presentations and classroom visits. Renew your membership and consider making an additional financial gift. We promise to apply your contributions prudently to keep the Village open and our organization financially solvent. Here then is a summary of our 'Next Steps' to...

Support students enrolled in virtual learning, limited classroom instruction, or homeschooling

The Historic Interpreters have developed new social studies resources and virtual visits for a school year without fieldtrips that traditionally generate over 25 percent of our operating revenue. Three new Our Community activity books that support first, second and third grade Michigan social studies curriculum standards can be used in class and at home. All books include a Teacher's Guide with additional information and activities. These resources can be purchased in classroom sets and individual copies are also available in the Village Store. Educators can also borrow History Trunks filled with artifacts for hands-on learning and schedule virtual visits with our Interpreters for their students. Details on page 6.

Provide monthly programs for seniors, adults and families with young children

We've reformatted popular programs for smaller groups, Zoom presentations and outdoor sessions when weather permits.

Pre-registration for all onsite programs ensures appropriate social-distancing. See program descriptions, schedules and fees throughout this issue.

Celebrate Scarecrowtopia, a safe Trick or Treat and Plaidurday

This October visitors can enjoy a terrific exhibit of historic scarecrows inside the Village as well as our popular Scarecrow Row along Wattles and Livernois Roads. Instead of one large Trick-or-Treat event, families can select a day and time to bring their household bubble of costumed kids for a fun and safe Halloween event. We also invite adults to put on their best plaid duds for our Plaidurday Happy Hour and fall concert. Details on page 6-7.

Welcome a new Executive Director

In this issue we announce the retirement of our Executive Director, the appointment of her successor, and the succession of a new Youth Education Director. These changes will control administrative costs while preserving the warm welcome, creative energy and quality programs that Villagers value. Details on page 3.

Niles-Barnard Update

THS is delighted to announce the completion of the Niles-Barnard House restoration. THS is grateful to the City of Troy for funding this important preservation project. We appreciate the skills, leadership and cooperation of the Restoration Team including: Kurt Bovensiep and Dennis Trantham from the City of Troy; Chris Ozog and Vincent Verna from OHM Advisors; and Rick Cedroni and Brian Lundberg from Cedroni Associates. THS looks forward to working with City administration to schedule a ribbon cutting ceremony and public opening during Phase 5 or 6 of the MI Safe Start Plan.

THS will now work with the Troy Garden Club and other community partners to design a phased landscaping plan for the building.

Village Pathways Improved

The deteriorated brick pavers in front of the Church and Parsonage and between the Caswell House and Poppleton School were recently removed and replaced with stamped dyed concrete walkways. The walkway adjacent to the Log Cabin was also extended to the Nile-Barnard House entrances. These pathways now link that building with those in the Village. This was a City-funded project.

In Memoriam

Long-time Villager Dr. Vera E. Milz passed away on May 26, 2020 following a long illness. Vera served as the THS President during the relocation of the Church and Parsonage in 2003 and donated funds to purchase the Church bell and steeple. A passionate educator and an innovator in elementary school reading, Vera published many articles and books on her methods and spoke at education conferences in the US and abroad. We also knew Vera as a talented quilter and doll collector. THS is honored to accept her lovely Victorian doll house into the Village collections. She will be missed.

Family Field Trips

This summer a Villager family found a creative way to celebrate their little girl's 6th birthday. The entire family dressed up in their best pioneer duds and came to the Village for a Family Field Trip. The group enjoyed time in Poppleton School complete with lessons and historic punishments; got hands-on with pioneer chores like laundry and butter making; and even made candles-very appropriate for a birthday! They topped the whole day off with cupcakes and "Happy Birthday" sung at a picnic table, under a shady tree on the Village Green.

Your family can do the same! Parents who are homeschooling, guiding their children through virtual learning, or seeking a screen-free and safe outing can now sign up for a Family Field Trip. The programs are the same ones we offer to schools every year, so you can be confident that your students are getting a grade-level appropriate, teacher-approved experience. Just as important as the fun they will have, the education they will receive and the candle they take home, Family Field Trips offer something that is a bit harder to find these days: a little dose of normal.

Check out page 6 for more information about dates, cost and how to reserve a time for your family.

Executive Director... Loraine Campbell

I am also taking my 'Next Step.' After 22 years at the Village, it is time for me to retire and begin a new adventure in Kalamazoo near my daughters and their families, which include five grandkids. My parents, who've attended many Village events and programs since 1998, will move with me. I cherish beyond words the deep and lasting friendships I have made in 22 years and am grateful to the THS Board of Trustees who have always been supportive progressive grassroots leaders. Together we expanded the resources of the Troy Historic Village so that it is now recognized regionally as an outstanding center for history and culture.

This fall you will also notice additional changes in the office prompted by the passage of time and the coronavirus. This summer Historic Interpreter Julie McCormick retired. Since 2011 Julie has shared her extensive experience as an elementary school teacher and assisted Village staff as they reshaped our youth education programs to improve content and activity-based learning. In July Diane Preslow and Rosemary Kornacki shifted from employee to contractual positions in the Village. We look forward to seeing them more when an effective vaccine allows THS to return to the "old normal" of daily fieldtrips and large group gatherings. Finally Alex Konieczny will now serve as the Youth Programs Director. Alex is a terrific Interpreter who will apply his interests and technical skills to produce new virtual programs. Matt Hackett will continue to focus on interpretive visitor experiences.

It is also my distinct pleasure to announce that Jen Peters will be the new Executive Director of the Village effective September 28th. Jen holds a Masters in Historic Preservation with a concentration in Interpretation, Cultural Tourism and Museum Practice from Eastern Michigan University and was recommended to us as an outstanding museum professional by the Director of that graduate program. Many of you know Jen as our Volunteer and Guest Services Coordinator. Like me, you've experienced her knowledge and passion for history, leadership skills and her warm and welcoming personality. I am confident that she will excel in her new role.

Early this week a mason finished the front stoops of the Niles-Barnard House with stones salvaged from the building's original foundation. He added the heart-shaped stone you see in this photo as a personal gift to THS. For me, it is also a great symbol. That small stone and others will soon be hidden from view by new steps, but it will always remain part of the foundation, shaped and changed by time, in a Village that is much more than a collection of buildings.

A Very Special Troy Historical Society Annual Meeting

September 28, 7 PM Troy Historic Village

This year the Annual Members Meeting will feature three important activities:

- Exhibit Tours: Explore Resilience on the Homefront, a thematic view of the creative and uplifting ways generations of Americans have responded to war, pandemics and economic challenges. A different theme is presented inside each building. Then next to each building enjoy Scarecrowtopia, a fun and informative history of scarecrows constructed throughout history by different ethnicities to protect crops from hungry birds.
- Business Meeting & Year-End Report: Join President Padma Kuppa, Treasurer John Lavender and Executive Director Loraine Campbell on her final day as Executive Director for a recap on an important and challenging year.
- Introducing the Niles-Barnard House and Jen Peters: Tour through the newly restored 1837 Niles-Barnard House and pick up a cool individually wrapped refreshment. Then meet and welcome Jen Peters, the new Executive Director of the Village.

Please help us provide a safe, socially distanced event. Please RSVP for this free event at 248-524-3570 or by email to events@thvmail.org and bring your mask to this event. Thanks so much for attending and supporting the Troy Historical Society.
